THURSDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 6.

A Clam Catches a Rat. Officer George Baker, of the Fourth precinct, went around yesterday morning at 3 o'clock to try the doors on his route. In the basement of a building at the corner of Fulton street and Broadway he heard a noise like a burglar trying to break open a door. He drew his revolver and went down to capture or, if need be, to shoot the burglar. When he reached the scene of the turmoil be saw something more surprising than a burglar. It was a big gray rat, with side whiskers and a particularly malignant expression of countenance. The rat was racing up and down the floor of a barber shop in the bessement and at every jump some in the basement, and at every jump some thing attached to the end of his long tail hit the floor and made the noise which had at-tracted the officer. Mr. Baker looked closer and saw that the object on the end of the tail of the agitated rat was a big hard-shell clam. The officer ran and called Policeman Lake, of the First precinct, and together they descended to slay the afflicted rat. The animal made a desperate dash through a crevice under a door. He was corpulent, but he managed to squeeze through. The clam, however, was too large to pass under the door, and the poor rat found himself not only burdened with a needless appendage to only burdened with a needless appending to his tail, but held a prisoner. Once, twice, thrice he pulled, but the clam would not come or let go, and the rat's tail was of too durable material to break. The rodent reflected a moment and then rose to the emergency of the case. He was no doubt proud of his tail, but he determined to sacrifice it to save his life. He turned about and bit off the end of the He turned about and bit off the end of the appendage close to the clam shell and then escaped. The policemen who had come down to kill the rat were so impressed with its sagacity and self-denial that they let it go; but it would have been an act of mercy selected the selected of t to have killed it, for closs observers of rats declare that when one of their number loses his tail or any part thereof he is for-ever ostracised by his fellows. The clam still retained its grip on the fragment of the rat's tail. It was taken in charge by Officer Baker, and is now on exhibition at Spencer's, at the corner of Broadway and Fulton street. Officer Baker, who knows ail about clams and rate, explained how the accident to the animal happened. He said: "I heard of a similar calamity that once befell a rat in an East side oyster house. You see, a rat will walk over a pile of clams in its search for food. This particular clam that made so much trouble for that rat that we didn't kill yesterday morning, lay with its tongue out, like that of a dog on a hot summer afternoon. The rat's tail came in contact with the clam's tongue, and instantly the clam drew in its tongue and the tail. Then it closed its shell with a firm and relentless grip on the rat's tail and the trouble began. It is hard to say which was the more surprised, the clam when the rat ran down into the basement, thumping the mollusk as it went, or the rat. A rat is more nervous than a clam and more intelligent. The clam didn't even know enough to let go, and a clam that has a morbid enough taste to make a luncheon off the end of a tat's tail doesn't know much snyhow."-N. DE. HORTON'S MIASMA ANTIDOTE.

The GAZETTE is now the oldest paper the State, and with few exceptions the oldest in the country, and its usefulness has been demonstrated and appreciated during the EIGHTY-SEVEN YEARS of its existence. In its columns has always been found a mirror of passing events, and the careful chronicling of the history of what is going on in the world has ever been its aim. It is always welcomed in the household, while in the counting room and workshop it has become

The GAZETTE has better facilities for abtaining news than any paper outside of the national capital. Situated as it is so close to the great centre of news, it enjoys daily the benefit of the Associated Press dispatches from every part of the world; hence its patrons can read from its columns in the evening what has transpired that day in every portion of our own domain as well as from every part of the habitable globe. Consequently it is an every day occurrence for the GAZETTE to publish telegrams from the various European capitals twelve and fifteen hours earlier than the morning pa-

Another feature that serves to make the GAZETTE a great desideratum with merchants is its afternoon market reports from New York, Baltimore, Chicago and other

The local department furnishes a full and complete history of everything that occurn and near the city, and this feature will. as ever, receive careful attention.

Correspondence from Washington, Richmond and every section of the State, is published regularly, and all events of interest occurring within the bounds of the Commonwealth are to be found in the columns

The GAZETTE's circulation is steadily in creasing, especially among people who consult its advertising columns before purchasing. That this is self-evident may be inferred from the fact that a large country edition-nearly as large as the daily-is sent all over this section of country three times a week, and is read by thousands, most of whom send here or to contiguous cities to make purchases. The advantages of advertising in the GAZETTE are, therefore, apdarent.
